

Joseph H. Fowler, the Engineer of the Wrecked Train, Takes the Stand and Tells What He Knows About the Disaster—A Slight Contradiction.

The jury selected late yesterday afternoon in the Hamilton case, filed into court at 9:40 this morning. Messrs. R. S. McDonald, Bailey Waggoner and Marshall McDonald, were appointed by the jury to assist in the prosecution. Messrs. Hale & Gibson, who assisted the prosecution in the selection of the jury, will assist in the trial, and the jury will be present during the proceedings.

At 10 o'clock Mr. Joseph H. Fowler, the first witness, was called to the stand. Mr. Fowler stated that he was the engineer of the Missouri Pacific freight train that was wrecked on the morning of August 24, 1913, at the place where he reached the bridge he felt the engine leave the track, and that three cars also left the track. He assisted the conductor in removing the wreckage and in the vicinity of the wreck. The defendant's counsel objected to the introduction of photographs, and the witness was not competent to testify to the correctness of the photographs. The court overruled the objection. The photographs were shown to the jury, and the witness was fully sworn.

Witness stated in what condition he found the track. He discovered that the track was laid next to the river had been driven from the track. The fish plates at the joints of the rail were removed, which necessitated the use of wooden fish plates. Witness went to the round house and on his return found that the body of Benjamin Horton was in the round house, but could not identify the body supposed to be that of Horton. A HOUSE OF COTTON

To Be Erected Within the Exposition Building.

A committee of representative cotton merchants of Memphis, New Orleans and Chattanooga called on the managers of the exposition building and desired to have an allotment of sufficient space in the exposition building to erect a house to be constructed entirely of cotton bales. Satisfactory arrangements were made and the gentlemen assured the managers that the cotton house and its contents will be one of the most attractive exhibits in the exposition. Within this house of cotton will be displayed the products of Tennessee and Louisiana.

The manufacturers of wall paper and decorations in Philadelphia and New York have been allotted considerable space for the exhibition of their products. This exhibition will be made doubly interesting, as the exhibitors will have a large number of miniature rooms decorated in a very elaborate manner in order to better display their wares.

Messrs. Bentley & Kerr, of Key West, Fla., will erect a beautiful room in the building, ornamented with beautiful shells and tropical plants and will display a number of alligators. This same firm will display a varied collection of the products of the tropics.

The Northwestern Arkansas Horticultural society will display all the different varieties of fruit and vegetables raised in that section. Colby & Co., publishers of charts and maps, will display a number of charts and maps of the world, and also a number of globes from the earliest efforts of scientists in that direction down to the most accurate and complete of the present.

The Kansas City Stone company will place beautiful arrangements about the entire building. The number and amount of transfers filed thus far this week are as follows:

Mon.	Tues.	Wed.	Thurs.	Friday	Sat.	Sun.	Total
42	42	42	42	42	42	42	252
128	128	128	128	128	128	128	896
12	12	12	12	12	12	12	84

Among the transfers filed to-day were the following: Eliza E. McKay and husband, to Cornelia E. McKay, lots 23 and 24 in Dundee place, for $1,000. Mary Brown and husband, to Daniel Bennett, lots 4 and 5 in Dundee place, for $75,000.

Bank Clearings. The following are the clearings reported by the Kansas City clearing house for the first three days of this week as compared with the clearings for the same time last year:

1912	1913	Inc. or Dec.
$1,228,409	$2,744,797	$1,516,388
$1,007,389	$2,724,479	$1,717,090

PLACING THE EXPOSITION STOCK. Stewart and Holmes Expected to Take $30,000 Worth—Committee Work.

A member of one of the committees that is placing the stock of the new exposition company, said to-day: "The committee is very interested in the feature of the exposition, and the great number of small subscriptions that have been made. At the same time, we could place the entire $100,000 in $100 shares, but we are not doing so."

The committee have been able to get over only a small part of the districts assigned them, and the work is still being done. The committee members are confident that the entire amount will be raised, and that the exposition will be a great success.
